

NEW CHINESE POLICY CAUSES BRYAN'S AIDE TO RESIGN POSITION

HUNTINGTON WILSON, ACTING
SECRETARY OF STATE, SENDS RESIGNATION TO PRESIDENT.

IS OPPOSED TO CHANGE

Declares in Letter to Wilson That He Is Out of Harmony With Radical Attitude First Announced
In Newspapers.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Washington, March 20.—Huntington Wilson, assistant and acting secretary of state, has resigned that office and insisted upon immediate acceptance of the resignation because of his radical difference of opinion with the administration regarding its Chinese policy.

Immediately Accepted.
President Wilson immediately accepted the resignation.

A probable result of the resignation will be the immediate appointment under a recess commission of John Bassett Moore, as counselor of the department of state with authority to act as secretary.

In a thousand word letter to President Wilson, the former acting secretary of state set forth that when he consented to continue for a time with the new administration he did not understand there were to be any radical changes of policy for which he would be called upon to act as spokesman.

Out of Harmony.

The letter continued in part: "It today becomes the duty of the acting secretary of state in dispatching instructions to the representatives of this government abroad and as the channel of communication with the deputies of foreign governments at Washington to be spokesman of the policy in regard to a new far eastern policy which is apparently deducible from your statement issued to the press last night. Inasmuch as I find myself entirely out of harmony with this radical change of policy as I understand it, I trust that you will sympathize with the view that it was not appropriate that I should longer retain the responsibilities of the office which I have now relinquished."

First to Newspapers.

"I had no reason to suppose that the officials on duty in the department of state would learn first from the newspapers of a declaration of policy which I think shows on its face the inadequacy of the consideration given to the facts and theories involved and the failure clearly to apprehend the motives leading to and the purposes of the policy superseded. I had no reason to suppose that the fate of negotiations which had so long had the studios intention of the foreign office of six great powers would be abruptly determined with such quite unnecessary haste and in so unusual a manner."

Refers to Taft Policy.

"These methods against which I respectfully protest are the very extraordinary circumstances which I feel vitiate my understanding with Mr. Bryan and completely relieve me of any further obligations in the premises."

"The repeated utterances of the last administration must have made it perfectly clear that the motive and purpose of the policy now abandoned were first and primarily the protection of China's integrity and sovereignty, the uplift of the Chinese people morally, materially and governmentally, the development of China's resources and the maintenance of our traditional policy of the open door or equality of opportunity for American enterprise."

FACTORY EXPLOSION CAUSES HEAVY LOSS

Five Are Killed, Ten Badly Injured, and Property Damage $100,000
at Medicine Hat, Canada.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Medicine Hat, March 20.—Five are dead and ten badly injured as the result of gas generated in the burning three story building of the Western Canada Cold Storage and Packing plant here last night. The property loss exceeds $100,000.

Fear that many more were buried in the ruins of the plant was practically set at rest early today when searching parties failed to find bodies. It is thought all the injured will recover.

At daylight today workmen continued their efforts to unearth bodies believed to have been buried beneath the wreckage of the main building when it was destroyed by fire and a gas explosion late yesterday. Up to an early hour today only five bodies had been recovered, although there were persistent rumors that between ten and thirty employees were in the building when the walls fell. It was believed that the exact number of dead would be known before night as the employees were to be checked as they appeared for work.

All but two of the twelve seriously injured will probably recover. A broken gas main filled the building with fumes and a small blaze breaking out in another part of the plant caused the explosion according to officials. The property loss has been variously estimated at from $25,000 to $100,000.

SUFFRAGETTE TRIAL STARTED IN LONDON

Prisoner Glories in Part She Played
In the Affair When Arraigned in Court.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

London, March 20.—Miss Olive Hockin, the militant suffragette who is charged with firing the pavilion of the Roe Hampton Golf Club was put on trial today.

Miss Hockin appeared to glory in the notoriety she had achieved. She stood in the prisoner's enclosure wearing a bright sash and smiling contentedly as the government lawyers detailed her activities in the field of arson and in the destruction of mail.

A large assortment of suffragette "weapons" were introduced as exhibits against Miss Hockin. Some of these were found in the militant suffragettes' "arsenal" in London. Others were from a grip sack alleged to have been dropped by Miss Hockin in her flight from the golf links.

The list of exhibits included wire cutting apparatus, bottles of acids and corrosive fluid, flints, tools for forcing windows, false identification plates for automobiles, ropes, cotton, wool, rope oil, fire lighters, candles, paraffine, a suit of workmen's overalls and a set of pole climbers.

"These women now have sunk to climbing telegraph poles," said the government counsel dryly as he called attention to the leg irons.

Among Miss Hockin's correspondence the government found a letter from Mrs. Pankhurst "openly inciting her followers to acts of lawlessness and outrages."

At the conclusion of the opening address the magistrate adjourned the case for a week.

HULL BILL AROUSES COLLEGE PRESIDENTS

Protest at Measure Which Would Provide Four Year College Course
at State Normal Schools.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., March 20.—The presence of a group of five college presidents in the capital caused hardly any evidence of unusual interest in the midst of a multitude of other important assemblies yesterday afternoon.

The following presidents appeared to oppose the Hull bill to permit a four-year college course in the state normal schools: Samuel Planiz, Lawrence, Appleton; Edward D. Borton, Beloit; Silas Evans, Ripon; W. C. Carlier, Carroll; Waakeghat, and Ernest, Northwestern. Waterbury, their arguments were directed to the point that the colleges should not be forced by act of the legislature to meet the competition that such a curriculum in all the normals would produce. President Eaton said that it costs Beloit college $100,000 for instruction, and that a college course as proposed would make it necessary to double this expenditure.

NEED OF BIG FARM AT WAUPUN PRISON

Katherine Williams of Board of Control
Urges Need of 600-acre Farm,
Before Assembly Committee.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., March 20.—That there should be a 600-acre farm in connection with the state prison at Waupun so the institution could be more nearly self-supporting, was advocated by Miss Katherine Williams, a member of the state board of control, before the assembly committee on state affairs yesterday afternoon. She said that there were about 300 acres of land used in connection with the prison at the present time. Several bills were under consideration by the committee relating to prison conditions and contract labor.

Miss Williams advocated the indeterminate sentence and claimed that if such a law were passed putting men upon their honor that it would result in the authorities at the prison being able to employ the convicts at work at which they are not now employed. Assemblyman Axel Johnson asked if a large dairy farm could not be established in connection with the prison.

"It has been difficult thus far to find prisoners who were capable of doing work on a dairy farm," said Miss Williams. "Their light fingers do not seem to extend in that direction."

Miss Williams said she was opposed to a general employment of convicts in the building of roads. She thought it might be all right in the building of roads through the state forestry reserve or even to do road work near the state prison where the people had become accustomed to the methods and employment of prisoners, but thought a wide application of the principle would be objectionable.

The indeterminate sentence plan was advocated by a few of the labor system who might be worked on the roadways. All of the work would have to be done under the direction of guards, she said.

Miss Williams spoke of the charges recently made at the prison and told the committee of the recently established tuberculosis camp on the prison grounds where eleven men suffering from consumption have been segregated from the other prisoners and treated. She advocated the system of paying men for overtime and its extension to the twine factory.

Mysterious Death, of Admiral Eaton Retired Complicated by Woman's Arrest.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Hingham, Mass., March 20.—Mrs. Eaton, widow of rear admiral Joseph G. Eaton, was arrested here today charged with the murder of her husband.

Admiral Eaton died suddenly on the morning of March 8th. He was 66 years old, but according to his friends had been in good health. Two days later the body was buried at Braintree, his former home.

There was no service at the grave, and besides the undertaker and newspaper men, only the widow and her daughter by another marriage witnessed the interment. The rear admiral had seen 33 years of service in the navy.

District Attorney A. F. Barker, announced the arrest in the following statement: "Mrs. Eaton is under arrest charged with the murder of her husband Rear Admiral Joseph G. Eaton. Death was due to poisoning, but peculiar features involved have prevented the authorities from committing the case to the public."

Mrs. Eaton later was arraigned before Judge Pratt, who conducted the inquest into the admiral's death. She pleaded not guilty and was committed to jail without bail for a further hearing March 25th.

to Certain Requirements
That Must Be Enforced.

The Austrian minister at Cetinje, the Montenegrin capital was instructed to inform the Montenegrin government that it must comply with the following:

The free exit from the fortress of Scutari of all non-combatants.

Three Austrian battleships and three smaller warships left Pola, the chief Austrian naval station, for an unknown destination. It is supposed they are to support today's demands.

NEW ORLEANS TO ABOLISH FAMED GREYNA MARRIAGES

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

New Orleans, La., March 20.—Acting on the recommendation of a committee appointed to investigate the subject, the Bra Club, a women's organization of this city, decided at a meeting today to launch a campaign to abolish the notorious Greyne marriages. For many years Greyne, which is across the river from New Orleans, has been the mecca of all persons in this vicinity desiring a speedy wedding. Marrying justices were conveniently at hand when the ferryboat from New Orleans arrived, ready to tie the knot without loss of time and with few questions asked. The investigations of the club women convinced them that the great majority of the Greyne matches resulted in misery and unhappiness, hence they have decided to use their efforts to put an end to the custom.

NEGRO RETURNS PURSE TO HEIRS OF OWNER

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Hillsboro, Texas, March 20.—Heirs of the late Judge Abbott of this place were advised today that the estate had been increased unexpectedly by $1550. While Judge Abbott was a member of the house of representatives, many years ago, he lost a pocketbook containing fifteen dollars in bills and fifty cents in postage stamps. Recently a negro, at that time a janitor in the house of representatives, returned the pocketbook and the $1550, explaining that he had found the money at the time of the loss and the fact that he had failed to return it to the owner had been on his conscience ever since. The amount was formally turned over to the heirs of Judge Abbott at their annual business meeting today.

DR. ELLIOTT MAY BE ENGLISH AMBASSADOR

President Emeritus of Harvard May Accept Post at Court of St.
James—James R. Mott
To China.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, March 20.—At the White House today it was said that the reported declaration of Charles V. Elliott, president emeritus of Harvard, that he would decline a diplomatic appointment if one were offered, might not deter President Wilson from urging Dr. Elliott to consider and take under advisement an offer of a foreign post. The appointment to London was thought to be the most likely offer if one were made. It has been reported that Dr. Elliott declined a similar offer from Mr. Taft.

John R. Mott, of Mt. Clare, N. J., it was said today, had declined an offer of appointment to be minister to China.

Information reached the White House today that it was reported later in the day that the reports that he would decline a diplomatic appointment did not come from Dr. Elliott. In view of this it was said that he is now foremost under consideration for appointment to the court of St. James.

Mr. Mott is a Y. M. C. A. official who has been identified with the missionary movement especially in the far east. It was said today Mr. Mott had been asked to reconsider his declination. It was also intimated at the White House today that with the selection of a minister to China, formal recognition of the republic might be announced by the United States.

The subject is under discussion now by the president.

SUFFRAGETTES BURN TWO BIG BUILDINGS WITH A HEAVY LOSS

Arson Squads of London Women Responsible for $100,000 Fires As Part of Fight for Vote.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

London, March 20.—Two "arson squads" of militant suffragettes succeeded in destroying a hundred thousand dollars worth of property early today.

One squad burned down the country residence of Lady Amy White, at Englefield Green, near the Thames. The other squad fired the buildings of the golf club at Weston-Super-Mare, a fashionable summer watering place in Somersetshire.

Lady White is the widow of Field Marshal Sir George White, the hero of Ladysmith in the Transvaal war. Her house was a big mansion standing in spacious grounds. The flames were discovered at one o'clock this morning and at that time had such a start that the local fire brigade were helpless. Tons of oil and inflammable materials were found scattered about the house, while on the grounds were papers inscribed "Stop torturing our comrades in prison. 'Votes for Women.' By kind permission of Charles Hobhouse," the last being a reference to the recent taunt of Chancellor Hobhouse that "women lacked the real revolutionary spirit of men to burn and sack in support of their cause."

Two women on bicycles were seen in the neighborhood half an hour before the fire was discovered. The house was unoccupied.

The incendiary of the golf pavilion also escaped. There are many suffragettes now in that neighborhood owing to the meeting of the National Teachers' conference at which Viscount Haldine, lord chancellor, is scheduled to deliver an address.

HIGH SCHOOL TROPHY MYSTERY IS SOLVED

Silver Cup Missing Since 1908 Discovered by Prof. Buell in Board of Education Vault.

After five years the silver cup presented by Rev. Denison, former pastor of the Congregational church, for the high school class team winning the championship in football, has been discovered. Search for the trophy has long since been abandoned and its hiding place has been a mystery, although it is hinted that members of the class of 1908, who last won it, knew where it reposed.

While cleaning out the vault in the board of education room yesterday, Prof. Buell discovered the cup, darkened and green from want of care. It will be polished and added to the school's collection of trophies.

The trophy was first won in 1900 by the then junior class of high school. Again in the fall of 1901 it was won by the same class, who was graduated in 1902. The seniors won it in 1903, and also in 1904. In 1905 there were no class games. In 1906 the seniors captured it again, and in 1907, the 1908 class of juniors defeated the 1907 class of seniors. Since that time the cup was nowhere to be found. Mr. Buell was especially pleased to find this cup, and stated that many of the members of the class of 1908 thought they knew where it was, but as a matter of fact no one actually knew its hiding place. Just who put it up in the top of the vault, Mr. Buell does not know, but now that it has been found, it will be placed with the other trophies of the school.

Morning Exercises. This morning at the high school, a celebration was enjoyed by the members of the school in honor of the victory in debating. Prof. West expressed his thoughts on the contest held at Beloit and stated that the local negative team won hands down from the Racine affirmative team by their modes of delivery, and expression. He stated also that the locals were extremely strong in arguments, and more so in refutation of their opponents' arguments.

Prof. Arbutnot then reviewed the debate at Racine. He thought that the locals should have won, because Racine refused to rebut their arguments. He stated also that Stanley Judd was good in rebuttal.

At the close of these statements made by these men who witnessed the debates, Prof. Buell stated that perhaps if the debaters did not object that the two local teams would battle later in the season on the same question, to prove to the school just how good they really were in these debates.

Appleton Situation.

There will be eight teams entered in the state tournament at Appleton next week. They compose the following: Ashland, Fond du Lac, Oshkosh, La Crosse, Vaucluse, Menomonie, Madison and Janesville. The contests will undoubtedly be the best in the history of the tournaments. Janesville is exceptionally strong, and is classed as a strong team, while last year they were considered a weak team. The five are somewhat different than last year, but is not this year. The teams re-entered this year are Janesville, Menomonie, Oshkosh, La Crosse, Madison and Fond du Lac. The fight will be the best in years, and the locals are hoping for some real luck when they reach the tournament.

Tomorrow night the locals will battle with the Beloit highs. Ryan will play center in place of Hemming, and possible Knhlow and L. Stewart will play part of the game. Hemming will be called upon if needed, but Beloit is exceptionally weak this year and no fear is in the locals as to their not defeating the Lino City five.

FREIGHT CAR DERAILED

AT ANDERSON'S CROSSING

Freight train number 322, which runs from Fond du Lac to Beloit on the Northwestern road, had a freight car derailed this morning just above Anderson's crossing. The damage was slight and the car was put on after a short delay by the wrecking crew. None of the passenger trains were delayed although if the accident had happened below the switches, some of the trains would be forced to wait until the car could be placed on the track.

OBITUARY.

Fred Schoof.

Funeral services for Fred Schoof, were held at two o'clock this afternoon at the home, 1221 Highland avenue. The Rev. J. W. Laughlin, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, was the officiating clergyman, and burial was made in Oak Hill cemetery.

Otto M. Weckwerth.

Last rites over the remains of Otto M. Weckwerth were held at the home of his parents, 1903 Prairie avenue, at two o'clock this afternoon, and at St. Paul's German Lutheran church at 2:30 o'clock. Because of the illness of the pastor, the Rev. C. J. Koerner, the Rev. P. W. Bretscher of Beloit officiated in his stead. The funeral was attended by a large number of the friends of the departed and his family and the burial took place at the same time. Those acting as pall bearers were: Richard Casey, William Kliefoth, Edgar Broegl, Carl Hell, William Yahn and Louis Schacht-schneider. Interment was made in Oak Hill cemetery.

Mutton and No Mutton.

It is odd that a sheep when dead should turn into mutton, all but its head; for, while asking for a shoulder or leg of mutton, we never ask for a mutton's head. But there is a fruit that changes its name still oftener; grapes are so called when fresh, raisins when dried, and plums when in a pudding.

Rare Sacrifice.

Joe Struthers says he has made a great patriotic sacrifice because he got so interested in electing a friend to a job that he nearly lost his own.

PRESS ASSOCIATION HONORS H. H. BLISS

Inland Daily Press Association Elects Him President for Coming Year.

At the annual meeting of the Inland Daily Press association, held in Chicago this week, H. H. Bliss of the Gazette Printing company was elected president for the coming year. This association is composed of newspaper owners and managers of daily papers in eight states—Missouri, Minnesota, Kentucky, Indiana, Wisconsin, Michigan, Iowa and Illinois. William V. Tafford of Clinton, Iowa, was re-elected secretary and treasurer, which office he has held for many years. The vice presidents of the association are one representative of each state as are the executive committee. At the meeting held this week in Chicago important action was taken on the proposed raise of the postal rates relative to newspapers, and a memorial to congress was proposed by Frank E. Noyes of Marquette, which would place the postal rates for newspapers on the same system, the same as the manner the rates are applied to the parcel post system. The meeting was held in the college room of the LaSalle hotel.

GINK AND DINK.

Sport Snap Shots

by Dan McCarty

The Chicago White Sox are said to be yearning to run wild on the bases this year. The term "Speedboys" applied to the Boston Red Sox will be altogether too mild for them, if present indications are borne out, and Collins, Matlack, and Lord, Jones or Jimmy Johnston are seen in the outfield, with Zeider, Weaver and Rath or Lord in the infield. These men just dote on beating it around the bases at such a rate that the leather of their shoes smokes. "Blitzed Babies" would seem an appropriate moniker for them.

Three race horses on the farm of Robert F. Collier at Red Bank, N. J., have just been accorded treatment more ceremonious than falls to the lot of most beasts of any degree. Headstones were placed above the graves of these hunters, Good Boy, Lakewood, and Lord Dunsandel, property of the late Peter F. Collier. It's surprising that the animals weren't cremated and their ashes deposited in costly urns. We may be coming even to that.

While the cry is going up that rowing is the most expensive of college sports, and that the financial outlay could and ought to be reduced materially by eliminating the weeks of work-outs on the courses over which races are to be rowed, Columbia has decided to erect a permanent home for its crew on the Poughkeepsie course. Two stone houses, one for the shells and one for the men, are to be erected at a cost of about $10,000. Those college boys evidently don't give a snap of their fingers for expenses.

MOOSE POLO PLAYERS MEET WORST DEFEAT

Crack Indiana Team Proves a Wonder, Winning in First Game 7 to 2—Play Again Tonight.

Janesville's polo team met their worst defeat last night at the rink by the score of 7 to 2. Their opponents the Richmond, Indiana All Stars gave the best exhibition of fine polo yet given ever seen at the auditorium. Composed of players out of the crack eastern league and playing together for a period of over five years they have developed a system of team work that has proven invincible against every team they have met. The entire team are excellent players and know the game from every angle. The secret of their success was their stellar team and pass work for whenever the locals would go to cover up, there was always a loose man to receive the ball and a man following to get the ball if the foremost player lost it. Every man was in the play and even the goal tender was given chances. In the team work, equipped with "hop" skates they could make dexterous turns that made the locals look slow. While they advanced the ball most all the game by team work, once when their rushes obtained the ball the invariably kept it by skillful dodging.

The Indiana team showed the polo fans some new wrinkles in the game such as making goals while the ball is in the air, and letting the halfback try for a goal and to take the ball from the middle of the floor to their own goal and then advance unaided the entire length of the floor by dodging. Long, first rush for the visitors, was by far the best polo player ever seen here. He was a triple threat of lightning on skates and could dodge to perfection. Once he got the ball on the rush he generally kept it until he tried for a goal. He scored four goals for his team and his fast individual and team work was the feature of the game. Thompson, second rush, was also a star man and could drive the ball with such force that it would make "Fritz" Reichert's drives seem like rain drops. His shooting was all done when going full speed and could drive the ball from any angle or position. Richmond's goal tender furnished much excitement for the large crowd of spectators for he was equipped with boards for shin guards and could cover the entire space in front of the goal and gave a good initiation of a jumping jack when the Janesville players had shots. His ponderous feet were always in the way of the locals' drives.

While Janesville was outclassed they played far from their usual form and didn't show the aggressiveness that they displayed against Racine.

last year, and unless the veteran exhibits form far better than he has so far, the youngster will have his job when the season opens. Shanley is fast, a hard hitter, a good base-runner, and a clever fielder.

Critics expect the New York Yankees to be helped greatly by the presence of Ed. Sweeney with the team from the start of the regular baseball season. Ed, than whom there is no better catcher of spitball flingers in the business, held out for more pay last year until the season was well advanced. His absence detracted from the effectiveness of Ford, McConnell, and Fischer, all strong pitchers, relying on the moist finger. It is thought that with Sweeney handling them from the start of the season, the hurlers will loom up much stronger this year than last.

It commences to look as if it were a pretty good thing for the Cleveland Naps that Southpaw Nick Cullop, who has just reported at the training camp after a long protracted hold-out has come to terms. Kid Eberfeld, former big league player, who battled against Nick in the Southern League last year, declares that "the kid had more stuff than he ever saw a pitcher have in that league."

Eppa Rixley, sensational young southpaw who went directly from the University of Virginia to the Philadelphia Nationals last year and made good, is in line for a suspension. He is back in college, and refuses to join the Phillies until he gets good and ready. In the meantime, he is working out daily. Manager Doolin is entirely likely to hand him a suspension. Big league authorities generally have little sympathy for players who are not interested enough in their work to report on time in the spring.

Kilmer played a steady game but was up against his superior in Long. Gaffey played sensational ball during the last third and scored two goals after Janesville started playing the game as they should. Blunk, Schaffer, and Connelly played well against their more skillful rivals but it was clearly to be seen that they were outclassed in the passing game.

First Third. Richmond started off with a rush and after several shots at the goal, Long obtained the ball at the center of the floor and scored the first goal, after some clever dodging. Thompson scored soon after by a hard angle shot. Janesville players were lost and could not cope with their rivals' speed and dodging. Long scored again and it looked like a slaughter for the locals did not have a shot at the goal the entire period. Janesville was hopelessly outclassed and the playing of the All Stars was marvelous.

Second Third. Long put the ball in on a fluke play which was a mixture of good playing and luck. Thompson had hooked the ball to him and while it was in the air, Long batted it in. Richmond made another lucky goal this period when Worthington went to knock the ball out of danger and it struck Connelly's shin guard and bounded back in. Richmond then proceeded to give example of some fine team work.

Last Third. Janesville played better ball this third than any time during the game and scored a goal after ten seconds of play. Gaffey pushed the ball past the goal tender when he was doing some of his jumping stunts. Kilmer scored the next play by pushing the ball in when all the players were bunched together. Thompson scored the longest goal made at the rink this year shortly after Kilmer scored. It should have been an easy shot.

While Janesville has very little hope of defeating this team all the players say the visitors will not score as many goals as they did last night when the two teams line up tonight. It is to be admitted Richmond had all the breaks of luck and Janesville has the ability to put up a better game than they exhibited last night. Janesville has learned their style of playing and should make a better showing against them tonight.

Richmond: Fred Long, first rush, Thompson, second rush, Quigley, center, Harold, half back and goal Pense. Substitutions—Gaffey for Blunk at second rush.

Goals—Gaffey 2, Kilmer 1, Long 4, Thompson 3.

Time of innings, 15, 10, 15. Referee—Earlright.

EIGHT TEAMS ENTER MILTON TOURNAMENT

Semi-finals and Finals Will Be Played This Afternoon and Evening—Results Wednesday.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Milton, March 20.—A very evenly matched series of games were played Wednesday afternoon and evening at the Milton college gymnasium when the preliminaries of the basketball tournament were played. In three of the four games the contestants were so evenly matched that the score hung in the balance until the final whistle was blown. The style of play was clean throughout and there was a noticeable absence of anything but the best of feeling between the rivals.

The first game of the series was between Stoughton and Edgerton. At the end of the first half the score was 13 to 8 in Edgerton's favor, but Stoughton came back strong in the last half, out-scoring their opponents by three points. The second game was won by Walworth in a hard-fought battle against Milton. They also were ahead eight points at the end of the first half, the score being 19-11, but in the last half Milton made the largest score, the game ending 25-20. West Allis and Lake Mills drew level for the third game and it seemed that it would be the most evenly contested game of the preliminaries for a time, they holding each other to a tie score for the first twenty minutes, 7-7, but in the last section West Allis walked away with them, allowing Lake Mills only two free throws. The final score was 24-9. The fourth game of the day was played between Palmyra and Ft. Atkinson. Neither team played very fast basketball, but they were evenly matched throughout. Palmyra leading most of the game until the last five or six minutes when the Fort team took the lead and held it to the finish.

Tomorrow afternoon the winners of these games will play off the semi-finals and in the evening these winners will play for the silver cup which is to be awarded to the best team. Donnelly, who is refereeing the series, is giving excellent satisfaction.

ZWILLING TO LEAD ST. JOSEPH IN 1913

Edward "Dutch" Zwilling.

Although Owner Jack Holland of the St. Joseph, Mo., ball club will manage his team from the bench again this season, he realizes the value of having a leader in the actual play, and for this reason has appointed Edward "Dutch" Zwilling, the former Chicago White Sox outfielder, captain of the 1913 team.

Zwilling in addition to being one of the best hitters in the Western league, is a popular player around the circuit on account of his good disposition. He hit .352 last year.

FORMER BIG LEAGUER TRIES TO 'COME BACK'

"Nig" Clarke.

"Nig" Clarke, formerly catcher for the Cleveland American League team, afterward with the St. Louis Browns, and now the property of the Indianapolis team of the American Association, has made a vain attempt to get back into big league circles. He wrote a letter to Manager Joe Birmingham of the Cleveland team recently, pleading for a trial. Birmingham, well-fitted with capable catchers, refused Clarke's advances.

Clarke not many years ago was one of the best catchers in the league, hitting but a few points below George Stone of the Browns when Stone led the American League in batting. Clarke was then with Cleveland. Like Stone, Clarke slipped rapidly. Stone recently advertised in a sporting paper for a position as player or manager.

JUST IMITATIONS.

Since the disastrous tornado which swept over Rock county a year ago last November, almost every twisting wind storm has been feared by the residents. The name cyclone was given the November storm and according to scientists it was a misnomer. Now that an up-hill fight is being waged for accurate English, year after year, by scientific authorities on the weather, it is proper to investigate the differences between a tornado and a cyclone.

The distinction made by the experts in meteorology is plain, but the public is wedded to the "cyclone."

The word has gained wide acceptance in describing the furious local storms which rush forward along a more or less direct path while they whirl with far greater velocity on a center which may be only a few feet in diameter. If a boy's top is spun on one end of a board and the board is tilted so that the top slides quickly along it all the while revolving at high speed on its point, the onward sweep of the tornado is closely imitated.

It is the spinning motion which is swiftest and most destructive. The advance of the storm may not be as rapid as that of many a comparatively harmless gale. The twisting motion is estimated at not less than 200 miles an hour in the worst tornadoes.

The true cyclone of the West indies, the China sea and other parts of the tropics, is entirely different.
Its force is spent in a furious wind that seems to blow almost straight ahead, while the great storm revolves, more or less fully, around a circle the circumference of which may be many hundred miles. A tornado weakens its fury on a strip of land usually only a mile or less in width. The cyclone sweeps scores or hundreds of miles of sea or shore.

But "cyclone" is entrenched in popular usage as the name of the typical "twister" of this country, and "tornado" has a poor chance.

WAR'S AFTERMATH.

American industries will be seriously affected by the aftermath of the present struggle in the Balkans. For several years past the majority of the laborers employed in various lines of industry for heavy work have come from the Balkan states. In many instances these workers responded to the call of their governments and returned to the colors of their respective regiments to fight against the Turks. They had been driven from their native lands by oppression and lack of work but with the increasing of the territory, the opening of new fields of industry that will follow the war as a natural result, they will doubtless prefer to stay at home among their own people rather than cross the ocean to the United States.
In fact the scarcity of labor is already noted by the various industrial organizations and it is predicted that this lack of workmen will seriously hinder construction work planned by railroads and other industries that depend on this class of workmen almost entirely. While the Balkan states are far from the United States and the outcome of the war to the majority of people is not more than passing interest, its effect will be felt all over the world.

A Chicago university professor proves that the mother-in-law joke is 5,000 years old. But as a joke the Chicago university professor can't claim any such distinction.

The legislature feels that it must pass a certain amount of fool legislation or it would not live up to the reputation of former gatherings in the past few years.

They had to notice the course of

It must be hard pickings down in Washington for the faithful who expected so much the day after the November election.

One by one ancient and honorable institutions crumble and fall. One American League manager has for-bidden his players to play poker.

A Cairo dispatch says a princess has disappeared from the Khedive's harem. Time to drag the Egyptian equivalent of the Bosphorus.

Presumably Mr. Morgan is making a farewell tour of Europe just to see whether he has overlooked any really desirable masterpieces.

Mr. Olney, of Boston, has refused the embassy to the court of St. James, but possibly Mr. Murphy of New York might accept it.

If the revolutions for revenue only are to be really barred, a lot of earnest patriots will be able to give more time to the raising of bananas.

King Alfonso is going to do Paris,

A Pennsylvania judge says many upright gentlemen get drunk. Maybe so, but can they stay upright?

People live longer in cities than in

APUR MOMENT

From the Hickeyville Clarion.

T. Egbert Peavey is what might be called a cosmopolitan. His shirt has got an initial letter "P" on the sleeve, his underclothes is marked "P. J. W."
and the initials cut in the inside band of his hat is "T. K." He has evidently traveled around some. The new trimmer says all blonds is not so bad as painted, and, by gravity, we don't see how they could be.

Rev. Hanks of the Hand Shell meeting house has got the greatest collection of counterfeit money in this country, and he is afraid to go anywhere for fear he will be arrested for "traveling the counter." He can't sell his money from good, but evidently most of his congregation can.
His Higgins' reports good "frogging" down Squaw Creek way. Hank Turnings are fourteen dozen legs at one sitting this week and several tellers is getting a square meal for the first time since rabbit season last fall. He has got a new and swift way to catch frogs. He tickles the frog under the left foreleg with a straw and the frog laughs and opens his mouth, and then he takes an atomizer of snuff and the frog sneezes himself to death. This is more humane than hitting same with club or spear.

Mr. and Mrs. Amos Frisby, the leaders of the smart set of polite society, have got a new iron dog in their front yard which is so true to life that Dog Catcher Hiram Spink tried to arrest it the other day for not having a license tag, but couldn't lift it into his wagon.

Business is slow and dull and folks around here have got so cold and munch longevity that Undertaker Amos Butts is dickering with one of our parcel post delivery fellows, and may sell him the hearse to use for a delivery wagon. William Tibbitts said a hearse would be quite appropriate for some of our rural delivery fellows, because they never get ahead and can't make much pleasure in reading them. Old Man Hicks lost his wooden leg in the good roads south of town yesterday and is trying to get somebody to dive for it.
Hicks is using a scythe smooth now for his off leg, but don't like it, as it makes him walk crooked and folks is apt to get a false impression.
Hicks never takes a drink unless he is alone or with somebody.

Renfrew Binks, our station agent,
had his nose broke by a small sack which was thrown out of the 5:17
last Thursday night and a mail sack from the 7:47 knocked the chimney off the railroad depot the same night.
The draft in the station stove and Renfrew's nose ain't been good since.
Jed Frink, our popular and congenial blacksmith, also frog spears made with neatness and dispatch, sat down unexpected on a red-hot horseshoe Wednesday last. Good luck, Jed. Amariah Tilton, our tonsorial artist, has got a new messagin' machine that runs by electricity for messagin' faces, etc. Miss Mazie Jinkey dropped her rat in the coffee pot last Saturday morning and she will not have to color her hair darker so it will match the rat.
Grandma Bibbins who has been in very feeble health for the last nine years, has got a job pumping the organ at the U. B. meeting house. She spent last week patchin' up the holes in the organ bellows with mustard plasters.

Summer.

Oh, how I love the summer time,
I'm glad I am alive
When good old Mr. Fahrenheit
Is touching ninety-five.

I have no anthracite to buy,
I shovel off no snow,
I do not have to wear earmuffs,
Wherever I may go.

I do not slip and jar my bones
Upon the icy walks,
Or hear the oldest resident
Give his cold weather talk.

It's simply heaven to perspire,
It's great to take a run
For nineteen miles or so
Out in the blazing sun.

It makes ambition stir within
My large upholstered frame
To be parboiled and melted down,
It makes me yearn for fame.

When suffocating weather comes
I never cure to shirk
The only notion that I have
Is to dig in and work.

Oh, how I love the summer time,
Of it I never tire,
But, still, I think that I can hear
You softly whisper "Liar."

Heart to Heart Talks

By JAMES A. EDGERTON

PUBLIC SPIRIT.

From many sources comes the cry that there is something the matter with America—that the nation is sick.
What is the trouble?

Without going into the political phases of the subject, is not one of the sources of our difficulty something like this?

We have failed properly to distinguish between public and private.

We have permitted private considerations to influence us in our public action.

Government with us has been too much a matter of private arrangements, of deals between special interests.

We have got to write that word
"PUBLIC" large before the eyes of all the people.

We need more public spirit, more publicity in things that affect the nation.

We need a new motto that will run something like this:

The man who permits a private consideration to influence him in the performance of a public duty is a traitor to the public.

Not should this motto be for officials alone. It should be kept before the eyes of every voter in the land.

True standards will not obtain among those in office so long as false standards are accepted by those out of office.

We must take our public spirit with us to the ballot box. We must use it in reviving the old fashioned public meetings, in which men of the neighborhood discussed the questions of the day.

Government is not a matter of private favors. Its only legitimate field is the good of all.

The man who holds to some party because he expects an office from that party is actuated by a private consideration in the performance of a public duty.

The man who supports those who will give him a special privilege is as much a corruptionist as the floater who sells his vote.

We must learn to separate our private interests from our public responsibilities.

We must have a vision of the public good.

The laws of nature treat all alike.
The laws of man should afford the same equal treatment.

"A public office is a public trust."

Government is not a matter of favorites, of classes, of patronage or of privilege.

It is a matter of justice.

It is of all, by all and for all.

BY WALT MASON

The spring will soon be here; the snow will disappear; the hens will cluck, the colts will buck, as will the joyous steer. How sweet an April morn! The whole world seems reborn; and ancient men wait round again and laugh their years to scorn.

And grave and sober dames forsake their quilting frames, Approach and cut up rough, play blind man's bluff, and kindred cheerful games.

The pastors hate to preach; the teachers hate to teach; they'd like to play baseball all day, or on the bleachers bleach. The lawyer tires of law; the windsmith roasts his jaw; they'd forget the toil and sweat, and play among the straw. The spring's the time for play; let's put our work away, with joyous spels kick up our heels, even though we're old and gray.
You see old Dobbin trot around the barnyard lot, with flashing eye and tail on high, his burdens all forgot.
You see the muley cow that's old and feeble now, turn somersaults and prance and waltz and stand upon her brow. The rooster, old is he, and crippled as can be, yet on his toes he stands and crows "My Country, 'Tis of Thee." Shall we inspired galeots have less style than the brutes? Oh, let us rise and fill the skies with echoing foot-foots.

BRITISH KING CARRIES OUT PICTURESQUE OLD CUSTOM

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

London, March 20.—The picturesque and historic ceremony of distributing the King's Maundy money to the poor of the realm was witnessed in Westminster Abbey today. Forty-seven aged and penniless subjects of the King were gathered in to be the beneficiaries of His Majesty's bounty.
This number corresponded to the King's age. A notable gathering of privileged guests looked on while the rites of the old custom were carried out.

DR. CHARLES W. ELIOT IS EIGHTY YEARS OLD

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Cambridge, Mass., March 20.—Dr.
Charles W. Eliot, president emeritus of Harvard University entered upon his eightieth year today. For a man of his years Dr. Eliot is unusually hale and vigorous. Last year he made an extensive tour of the Far East and recently he has been prominently mentioned for an important diplomatic appointment under the new administration.

Plans for Ship Canal.

Newark, N. J., March 20.—The New Jersey State Chamber of Commerce met in this city today and discussed plans for a ship canal across the state from Bordentown to Annapolis. The legislature has been asked to appropriate $30,000 for a survey of the route.

Scrub Flower Pots Occasionally.
Keep a small stiff brush to give the flower pots of house plants an occasional good scrubbing. Even though the pots are set in jardiniere, they need cleaning once in a while. The pots are porous and become easily clogged if not washed occasionally. If the pot is kept clean the soil will keep fresh and will never become sour and kill the plants.

Where Cleanliness Is a Habit

You people who have not cared for motion pictures on account of poor programs you have seen, listen to this announcement.

For a limited time beginning Monday, March 24, LYRIC THEATRE offers nothing but the pictures that have "made a hit."

Each week the fourteen licensed reels that have scored the greatest success out of the forty-six produced weekly, will be shown, two every day.

Getting the selection is expensive, as these are the pictures in constant demand in the cities, so it will cost you a nickel more to see them.

But for the dime you also see the work of one of Wisconsin's cleverest operators, who makes picture projection an ART, and you hear the work of the highest-salaried pianist ever employed in our theaters.

If you enjoy what the competent critics pronounce the best in cinematography, invest your dime, and get in return EN-TERTAINMENT OF QUALITY.

The policy of Majestic Theater, showing the best pictures it can for a nickel, is unchanged.

The admission at the Royal, when it is re-opened,
will also be 5 cents.

Never Again the Old Way.

If you have ever had a tooth filled, you know what the drilling has meant to your nerves. The pain was simply unbearable.

Multitudes allow their teeth to simply rot in their mouth, rather than go to the dentist again.

My method will cost you a little more on each tooth filled, because I myself had to pay a large amount of money for the outfit.

But once you have tried it, you will say:

"Never again will I have a tooth touched without Dr. Richard's painless method."

Cheap Way to Mount Pictures. To mount pictures inexpensively for the nursery or children's bedrooms, cut all the white margin off the picture, then get some thin, smooth boards 1½ inch larger all round than the picture; stain the boards with dark oak stain about two inches round the edge; varnish them; then paste the picture on the board, leaving an even edge of the stained wood all round; hang on the walls in the usual way.

Arsenic That We Eat. It is known that arsenic exists normally in the tissues of the human body without doing harm. It is a constituent of peas, almonds and beans. INCOME TAX FEATURE OF TARIFF MEASURE

Will be Framed by Congressman Hull of Tennessee—Experts Examine Revisions in Schedules.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, March 20.—The tariff revision agreed upon in the means has been carefully analyzed by a corps of statisticians and customs experts temporarily quartered in the committee offices.

Representative Hull of Tennessee who will frame the income tax feature bill and Representative Peters of Massachusetts, have been conferring over the administrative feature for reports to the full committee. The committee plan is to retain most of the administrative sections of the present tariff law and the income tax has been added to the existing law, bringing up for the analysis of probable returns from the fourteen schedules of dutiable articles.

Postmasters Resign. As a result of the extension of the classified civil service to include fourth class postmasters and the announcement that postmasters of that class would be asked to qualify in a competitive examination, the post-office department has been flooded with resignations from the service. At present resignations are reaching the department at the rate of about 20 a day and officials declare that about 2,000 fourth class postmasters have resigned since the executive order was issued.

Practically all of the resignations are in postoffices where the postmaster's salary is merely nominal.

NEW LAW AFFECTS COMING ELECTION

Amendment to Present Registration Law Passed by Legislature is Now in Operation.

By the terms of an amendment to the present registration law passed at the present session of the state legislature and effective upon its passage inspectors of election "shall place the names of all persons in their election district known by them to be qualified electors and the names of all electors who appear in person or through a responsible elector of the voting precinct known to the inspector."

A copy of this amendment has been received at the office of the county clerk from the secretary of state. By its operation at the coming registration day, March 25, it will not be necessary for voters to appear in person if they feel certain that their names will be taken care of by the inspectors.

However, to be sure every voter should take special pains to appear at his precinct himself, as not a little doubt exists in regard to the rights of some foreign born residents to vote and it would be probable that such a person would not have his name carried over unless he appeared with his citizenship papers to make sure that his name was placed on the lists.

Direct Steamship Service From Austria to Canada

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Vienna, March 20.—The first steamship in the direct service to be operated by the Canadian Pacific Railroad between Austria and Canada is scheduled to sail today from Trieste for St. John. The inauguration of this service is expected to have consequences of a most important and far-reaching nature. If present predictions are fulfilled it will mark the beginning of a race-war that will eventually involve all of the great lines engaged in the transatlantic traffic. In order to establish its new line the Canadian Pacific company withdrew from the North Atlantic passenger conference, which has long controlled the steamship routes. In taking an independent course the Canadian Pacific has the hearty co-operation of the Australian government. The latter is determined to secure for its port of Trieste a fair share of the emigrant and other traffic, of which the German ports have enjoyed a virtual monopoly.

UNCLE SAM'S NEWEST RECLAMATION PROJECT IN TEXAS WILL MAKE JOHN BULL'S DAM AT ASSOUAN ON THE NILE LOOK SMALL

Top picture shows Rio Grande where Elephant Butte dam will be erected. Top of dam will run across valley from bases of cable towers; at the right, carrying small locomotive across Rio Grande on cables; E. H. Baldwin.

John Bull's Assouan dam on the Nile, commonly regarded as the mightiest irrigation plan ever undertaken by man, will look small when Uncle Sam's new irrigation project on the Rio Grande in Texas is accomplished. When the Elephant Butte dam rears its top line 263 feet above the present level of the Rio Grande, spanning the 1,200-foot width of the river canyon, its 474,200 cubic yards of concrete and stone masonry will be shouldering against an artificial lake more than 40 miles long, from a mile and a half to four miles wide and average considerably over 100 feet in depth. The work on this great reclamation structure has already begun, and is in charge of E. H. Baldwin, a graduate of the Cornell engineering school.

Forecasting the Weather

How It Is Done.

Of course it is impossible for anyone to attain an elevation from which to view the whole country at once, but equivalent results are obtained by another process. The weather bureau maintains telegraphic observing stations in all parts of the country, there being over 200 of them in all, and observers at these numerous viewpoints, all acting simultaneously, are able to accomplish as satisfactory a survey as would be obtained by one person at a single viewpoint if such a thing were possible.

Every 12 hours, precisely at 7:45 a. m. and 7:45 p. m., seventy-five meridian time, the observers in all parts of the country begin the work of observing and recording the weather conditions, each in his respective territory. The sky is observed and the clouds are classified; the barometer is read and corrections are applied to obtain the corresponding reading for sea level, so that all barometers may show the value for the same plane; the direction and the velocity of the wind are noted; the rainfall or snowfall, if any, is measured; the current temperature and the extremes since the last previous observation are taken from the several thermometers; moisture content of the atmosphere is calculated; and all other phenomena, such as thunderstorms, fog, smoke, halos, etc., are carefully noted. Each observer then condenses the information he has secured into a telegraphic cipher message of 4 or 5 words, that when translated or expanded into descriptive language would comprise from 30 to 50 words. This work consumes about 15 minutes, and is completed at all stations by 8 o'clock.

The messages are rapidly transmitted to main line telegraphic circuits, and are collected at the central office in Washington, and are also interchanged between many of the larger cities where forecasters are stationed. At these various centers, the messages are translated as fast as they are received, and the conditions are inscribed in their respective places upon an outline base map of the country by means of figures, letters, and symbols.

The locations of the observing stations are indicated by small circles. Where cloudiness prevails the whole area of the circle is blackened; for partly cloudy conditions one-half of the circle is blackened; while the whole is left clear to represent clear skies. If rain is falling at the time of observation an "R" is marked in the circle, or an "S" for snow, as the case may be. Arrows are inscribed to fly with the wind. The barometer reading, temperature, wind velocity in miles per hour, and the depth of precipitation (rain or snow), if any, are written by the side of each station in figures. The precipitation areas are outlined and shaded. Red lines are drawn through points of equal barometric readings, and indicate atmospheric disturbances, the significance of which will be explained in later chapters. Blue lines are drawn through points of equal temperature, and the completed chart is known as a weather map.

The work, from observations to map making, is all conducted under such specific rules and regulations that the finished map is as complete a bird's-eye view for the experienced forecaster as if he had beheld all the conditions with his own eyes.

In less than 2 hours from the time the observations are taken, the various forecasters are, figuratively speaking, standing on eminences overlooking the entire country, and are prepared to give out information regarding the weather conditions in any section, as well as to forecast the probable developments for a day or two in advance. By means of the map, the forecaster is enabled to anticipate the conditions for another state or for a distant city with nearly as high a degree of accuracy as he can for his own locality.

It should be borne in mind that the information that the forecaster gives out regarding the conditions in any portion of the country is derived from the reports of actual observations and is distinctly accurate and reliable. The forecasts that he issues represent his conclusions regarding the probable movements and developments for the time specified, but human judgment must necessarily contain some element of error.

However, as in the supposed case of the man with the bird's-eye view, we must conclude that if the forecaster with so much information before him can not always anticipate the movements and developments accurately, it would be useless for one not so equipped to attempt to excel him.

"HOWE'S PICTURES."

Lyman H. Howe's Travel Festival which comes to the Myers Theatre Wednesday and Thursday, March 26 and 27, matinee Thursday, by reason of its unique character, its artistic beauty and appeal to the intelligence exactly meets the demand of the most discriminating amusement patron. It is well known that Mr. Howe's pictures "speak louder than words"—and more eloquently. Surely, too, they are more profitable than words because impressions received through the eye are clearer and make a more direct and enduring appeal to the mind than those received through the ear. With the fact indisputable that the picture is lighter than the word and penetrates deeper, it is no exaggeration to claim that an evening spent with Lyman H. Howe's "perfect pictures" is worth many days of constant reading. It is natural for the mind to crave knowledge and Mr. Howe's exhibition satisfies this longing by conveying to spectators a legion of new and delightful impressions. By describing an exhibition like Mr. Howe's as "educational," is not meant the gloomy interpretation of that word as associated with bygone systems of teaching which repressed the imagination rather than stimulated it. On the contrary Mr. Howe's reproductions are "educational" in the broader sense that they suggest new thoughts, inspire new ideas and cultivate a taste for the beautiful things of earth. For instance, scenes of the splendid activity, athletic deeds or diversified forms of exercise at a military training school impart fresh conceptions of physical culture. Views of mechanical achievements and modern constructive enterprises that busy men are accomplishing serve to awaken new ambition, and the perpetuation in permanent form of every scene of surpassing beauty cultivates a finer appreciation of life on this little planet of ours during the short term we hold residence here. These are only a few of the considerations which make Mr. Howe's Travel Festival, even to the most jaded theatre-goer, as refreshing as a spring shower that revives the hidden existence of the budding flower and brings it to full bloom. To everyone it comes as a pleasing relief to the dull routine of the day's duties because it not only refreshes the mind, but inspires new conceptions while, at the same time, it provides amusement in a most wholesome way.

"OUR WIVES."

"Our Wives," a new comedy of sex, by Joseph M. Gaites, which comes to this city soon, direct from its four month's run at the Cort Theatre, Chicago, with a company of well-known players, headed by Henry Kolker. It is the work of Helen Kraft and Frank Mandel, two new authors.

The plot concerns an extremely successful young librettist who thinks he has made his success in life through the elimination of sex. He doesn't hate women, he merely avoids them, because they suggest sex. To defeat feminine cunning, he has surrounded himself with bachelors only, and a servant-confidant all apparently as bitterly anti-feminine as himself. One by one they fall, each before a distinctly different type of woman whom each of them confides in him is "of the sort God made and then destroyed the world."

Meanwhile he has been lured by a young composer living above him. He determines to send for the composer to help him with the opera he is working upon. The composer appears. It is a woman. He is impressed at the trick nature has played upon him. Finally, however, he finds that the very clever and beautiful young woman apparently has the same objection to men that he has to women. They agree to smother sex, to look upon each other as sexless, call each other by their last names and work together.

The predicaments that they get into, particularly while his erst-while bachelor friends arrive with their wives, each jealous of the other together with the very serious complications that arise, from the background of a very human play. Mr. Kolker, who plays the role of the librettist, is well remembered for his work in "The Great Name," which had such a successful engagement at the Cort Theatre, Chicago, last season. Pamela Kaythorne, who takes the part of the composer, appeared in leading roles with the New Theatre Company. Others in the cast are Gwendolyn Fiers, Eda von Luke, Isabel MacGregor, William Roselle, George Graham, Mark Smith and John Findlay.

"Our Wives" will be presented at Myers Theatre, Saturday, March 29.

DINNER STORIES

A Scotch tourist, walking about the streets of Paris, some distance from his hotel, found he had taken a wrong turning, and, to make things worse, he could not, through ignorance of the language, ask the way. Then a happy thought struck him. By dint of signs he concluded a bargain with a fruit hawk for a basketful of gooseberries, and then to the amusement of everybody, went about shouting: "Fine Scotch gooseberries! A penny a pun!" This went on for a while till a fellow countryman rushed forward and asked: "Mon, d'ye think ye're in the street of Glesca, that ye gang about like a madman crying gooseberries?" "Eh!" replied the hawk with a sense of relief, "ye're just the man I was looking for. D'ye ken the way to the—Hooel?"

Less Tapioca Now.

"Tapioca is dearer owing to the fact that large areas formerly devoted to its planting in the Straits Settlements are now being used for rubber planting." While we were still in the nursery we registered a vow never to eat tapioca pudding when we were once in a position to order our own meals, and this information leaves us cold.—London Globe.

One Way to Killa Town

AND A WAY TO KEEP YOUR COMMUNITY ALIVE AND GROWING.
ORGANIZE "GET TOGETHER" CLUBS FOR MUTUAL ASSISTANCE—NOT ASSASSINATION.

Copyrighted 1913, by Publishers' Service Bureau.

No family can be entirely happy and contented if it is known that some member of the household is looking for an opportunity to put poison in some other member's soup.

No town can be a good place to live and do business in if envy, hatred, malice, and all uncharitableness are permitted to poison the moral atmosphere and kill the civic soul.

It should not be necessary to support these statements with argument, but there are so many towns where the venom of discord has wrought its baneful work that the subject is one upon which a trade sermon may be preached weekly with profit.

Literally, Anger Makes "Bad Blood."

Science has demonstrated that violent anger causes chemical changes in the human body that are seriously detrimental to the health of the victim. Any physician of experience will tell you that the habit of brooding over fancied wrongs, the cherishing of malice and hatred, and the seeking for opportunities to gratify the craving for revenge, have an effect—not only mental, but physiological—that is certain to impair health.

In a very real sense the evil that men do and the evil they strive to do return upon their own heads. "As ye sow, so shall ye also reap" describes the operation of a natural law that is as fixed and constant as the law that guides the stars in their courses.

The Right and the Wrong Way.

The character of every town is determined by the character of its citizens. Open, manly differences of opinion, debated with spirit and settled—or renewed from time to time—without rancor or bad blood, do not harm anyone and add spice and interest to the life of the town; but petty jealousies, bickerings, factional controversies and class contentions are emanations from the pit and carry a strong taint of sulphur.

The atmosphere of a town where business rivalries take on the keen edge of the Indian's scalping knife, and where class animosities are cooked over the fires of malevolence, is distinctly disagreeable to normal men and women. Many such have been literally driven from towns of that kind to seek homes elsewhere in order to escape from the discomfort inseparable from such surroundings.

These are facts of common experience that can not truthfully be contradicted. This being the case, it follows as a matter of course that such a town must lose trade because of the unfavorable trade conditions that obtain there.

A Waste of Time and Energy.

Merchants lose so much time planning to circumvent their rivals and "get even" with other men they despise that they fall short of the attention they should give to their business, to their customers, the study of modern business methods, buying, salesmanship, and all the little but important details that go to make for success in business.

And in the meantime the catalogue and other "direct to the consumer" retailers come in and skim the cream from the commercial milk.

Every community in this broad land should organize a "Get Together Club" and begin a betterment campaign. In this campaign all classes of citizens should join—farmers, tradesmen, professional men, manufacturers, and the ladies. God bless them! They should all look upon themselves as members of one big family with many interests in common, and a desire and determination to work together for the common betterment of the community.

Try it and see how it works. It will prove vastly more profitable and satisfactory than to go gunning for neighbors.

CLARK TO GIVE SON FINE JOB IS RUMOR

Bennett Clark.

Speaker Champ Clark has about decided to appoint his twenty-three-year-old son, Bennett, parliamentary clerk of the lower house of congress. The job carries a salary of $4,000, and is the most important in the gift of the speaker.

Ascher Birds was the parliamentary clerk during the Republican regime. He had a nation-wide reputation when he resigned the position and was elected to the house from Maine. He was succeeded by Charles C. Sp. who was elected to congress from a Georgia district last fall.

Skin Sufferers—Read!

We want all skin sufferers who have suffered for many years the tortures of disease and who have sought medical aid in vain, to read this.

We, as old established druggists of this community, wish to recommend to you a product that has given many relief and may mean the end of your agony. The product is a mild, simple wash, not a patent medicine concocted of various worthless drugs, but a scientific compound made of well known antiseptic ingredients. It is made in the D.D.D. Laboratories of Chicago and is called "D.D.D. Prescription for Eczema."

This is a doctor's special prescription—one that has effected many wonderful cures.

The effect of D. D. D. is to soothe instantly, as soon as applied; then it penetrates the pores, destroys and throws off all disease germs and leaves the skin clean and healthy.

We are so confident of the marvelous power of D.D.D. that we have taken advantage of the manufacturers' guarantee, to offer you a full-size bottle on trial. You are to judge the merits of the remedy in your own particular case. If it doesn't help you, it costs you nothing.

D.D.D. Soap is made of the same healing ingredients. Ask us about it.

The Common Sense of Chiropractic

This Science the Greatest of All Modern Healing Forces

NERVOUS TROUBLES GIVE WAY AFTER A FEW SPINAL ADJUSTMENTS

If Your spine is In Line Your Body Will Not Accept Disease

The perfectly normal body can maintain itself in a healthy state. It has power to eject poisons from the stomach, to make antibodies to those introduced into the circulation, to heal a wound or knit a broken bone. Nature working through a normally adjusted spine has power to heal disease no matter of what nature. A body set right mechanically with the spine in line will speedily bring itself back to the standard Nature has set for it.

Nerve tissue is the most important tissue in the body, controlling all others. If the nerves act abnormally the functions they control become deranged. Ninety-five per cent of all the nerve derangement of disease in man—arise through a pinching of the nerves at the spine. The only place in the body, however, where the nerves may be interfered with is at the place where they leave the spine (See Illustration) Notice the subluxated vertebrae, which causes pressure on the nerves and a disturbance of their functions.

A subluxation is a partial displacement of a vertebra and may be caused by jars, falls, wrenches, etc. Once acquired it may lie latent for a considerable period and then, through the action of some secondary causes, becomes a serious menace to life. Have your spine examined regularly by J. N. Imlay, "The" Chiropractor.

The Chiropractor can demonstrate that a subluxation exists, and can discover the primary weakness in the diseased organs of the body by examination of the spinal column. He knows the organs to which these nerves carry life, knows where disease exists. And can prove it by removing the primary cause in the spine and Nature demonstrates her power by removing the disease.

Without a vertebral subluxation no germ could find lodgment in the body; no vulnerable spot would be ready for the attack. No poison could remain in the body unless chemically strong enough to destroy it. No change of temperature of exposure, no error in diet, no adverse mental condition would be sufficient to derange the perfect mechanism. If you "take cold" it is because the mucous membranes are weak and susceptible through nerve impingement. If your food, disagreeing with you, remains in the stomach to affect your general health it is because the stomach is not normal enough to empty itself, through subluxation and nerve impingement.

If the spine is right the man is right. See 1st opening.

If you do not believe this, come to J. N. Imlay, "The" Chiropractor and let us prove it to you. By the test of practice the Chiropractic science is the greatest of all securing a higher percentage of results than any other system known.

J. N. Imlay.

I wish to express my gratitude to you, for what you have done for our son Claude, and through your adjustments is now a strong, healthy boy. At the age of about 10 years he began to develop a nervous trouble, such as twitching of muscles of the face, hands and arms and in different parts of the body. We consulted several noted physicians, also Magnetic Healers and in fact anyone that we thought would help him, but no help came and he gradually grew worse from time to time. The doctors said it was verging on St. Vitus' Dance, etc. At last we heard of J. N. Imlay, Chiropractor of Janesville, Wis., and consulted him on the case, and to our great surprise and amazement he gradually grew better under adjustments and as I said before he is healthy and strong today. We cannot praise Chiropractic enough, and know and believe it is the only thing that will completely restore health to those that are sick. They remove the cause of all disease and in so doing health is restored, and only a Chiropractor can do it. Thanks to the Science and J. N. Imlay for what he is doing.

Respectfully,
Mr. and Mrs. A. Henderson.

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

DO YOU REMEMBER DATES?

My small niece, Rosalie, came home from school completely discouraged the other day. She had failed in her history examination. Now if it had been arithmetic we wouldn't have been at all surprised. For Rosalie has no head for figures. But she is extremely pleased with her first history course, and so we were much puzzled until we asked a few questions about the test; and then we understood perfectly. For at least half the questions were more like arithmetic than history, in other words, they were on nothing but dates. And while Rosalie seems to have a fine grasp of the facts of English history and their relation to each other, and can tell us some of its thrilling stories with a dramatic fervor that makes them far more interesting than the history book does, she doesn't know the exact dates. And so she flunked.

Perhaps it is because I take after my niece in having no head for exact figures, but I certainly seem to me that the attempt to make children remember lists of dates is one of the great mistakes of our education. Of course, if we put sufficient mental effort upon it we can learn dates, and doubtless it is good mental training and teaches concentration. But aren't there plenty of other ways in which one can learn concentration, and at the same time absorb something that will be more worth knowing, and that one will remember after a few years?

I emphasize those last few words because I think there isn't one person in a hundred who remembers more than two or three dates in all the innumerable lists he was obliged to learn in school. I have asked several people lately what dates in English history they can remember. Four out of the five whom I asked remembered exactly one date, and all, curiously enough, the same. Before you read on, ask yourself what date in English history you remember, and I'll wager it will be that very one—1066 the Battle of Hastings. Incidentally two of the four could not tell what that battle stood for in English history, or why it was so important, things that would certainly have been more worth remembering than its exact date.

The average person seems to remember more dates in American history, but even here he has little to show for the long lists he once learned. It is actually true that before I started talking with my friends about this subject, I could have named just four dates in American history, 1492, 1776, 1812 and 1861. And the only reason I remembered two of those dates was that they were embalmed in verse. "In 1492 Columbus sailed o'er the ocean blue," "1776, hardly a man is now alive," and verse I do not easily forget. Doubtless I am more forgetful than the average, but my investigations have persuaded me that I am not so much so as you might think. Bring up the subject of dates sometime among your own friends, and see.

If a child learns the sequence of events in history, their causal relation to each other, and their approximate dates, it seems to me he has learned all that is necessary, and all that he will ever remember. And for the sake of our little student, and all the other little students who find it hard to remember cold figures, I wish our school boards thought the same.

up of the feet, contractions of the muscles of the face and other signs of pain. The abdomen is usually tense and hard.

If the gas seems to be in the stomach, sit the baby up and rub or smartly pat the back. If this does not bring up the wind, give a tablespoonful of very warm water in which half a soda mint tablet has been dissolved, or to which a few drops of peppermint extract, (not peppermint oil) have been added. See that the feet are warm. Place them against a hot-water bottle, or hold them before an open fire; apply a hot flannel to the abdomen, or let the child lie upon its stomach across a hot-water bag. If the colic continues, a half teaspoonful of warm water containing ten drops of turpentine may be injected into the bowels with a syringe; at the same time the abdomen should be gently rubbed so as to start the wind.

Croup.

The symptoms of croup are a hollow, dry, barking cough, with some difficulty in breathing, usually occurring at night. The ordinary croup of infants is spasmodic and is very rarely dangerous, although the symptoms seem very alarming. In a mild attack there is simply noisy breathing, especially on drawing in the breath, with a tight, barking cough. In severe attack the child's breathing is more noisy and becomes difficult; send for a doctor at once, if this occurs.

If the baby has ordinary spasmodic croup, see that the room is warm and apply hot cloths or poultices over the throat, and keep either a croup kettle or an ordinary tea kettle boiling in the room. In the absence of a croup kettle use an ordinary tea kettle over an alcohol lamp, placed on a low box so arranged that the steam will enter the spout of the kettle or pin a paper conical cup around it, and let the steam enter at the level of the baby's head.

The mother should keep her hand in the vapor, near the child, for a while to see that it's not too hot enough to scald. Cover the crib with a blanket, or introduce the steam beneath a tent made by a raised umbrella with a sheet thrown over it. If the symptoms are urgent and medical aid cannot be obtained at once, ten drops of syrup of ipecac may be given every fifteen minutes, until the child vomits, after which the breathing usually becomes easier.

Scratches.

If a baby is scratched by a pin or by its own nails, bathe the part in boric acid solution frequently; and if the child is old enough to scratch off the scale as it forms, put oxide of zinc on it and bandage the part, even if it necessitates bandaging the whole hand. A young child will often infect a slight wound by scratching it with its nails until a sore is started. A baby's finger nails should be kept carefully cut, and if the scratching habit is bad the child should wear mittens at night, or have a night-dress with sleeves long enough to sew or tie up.

POTATO SUBSTITUTES.

There are several kinds of foods that might take the place of the potato, and for variety it is well to occasionally miss a meal and substitute one of them.

The cheapness and availability of the potato is a great factor in its popularity.

Rice, macaroni, bread crumbs and combinations with these foods will make quite a variety to use in place of potatoes, occasionally.

Rice cooked until tender, mixed with a little butter, sprinkled with grated cheese and onion. Repeat with another layer of rice, and bake. Makes a most nutritious dish, which may be served as a vegetable.

Rice and tomato, baked in layers and well seasoned with cayenne pepper, makes another acceptable dish.

Rice, plain boiled, served in a pretty mound, garnished with parsley, will make a most acceptable addition to beefsteak. The rice may be well seasoned and served on a plate, as one does mashed potato.

Macaroni With Nuts.—Take a cupful of cooked macaroni, put it in the bottom of a buttered dish, sprinkle with any kind of coarsely broken nut meats, add a cupful of white sauce, cover with buttered bread crumbs and bake until the crumbs are brown.

Hominy is another food rich in nutriment which may be served as a vegetable. Season, and serve well cooked, as potato with meat, or it may be combined with cheese and white sauce and baked.

Hominy Griddle Cakes.—Add hominy to a griddle cake batter, and cook as usual, or add to muffin mixture and bake in the form of gems or muffins.

Bread Crumb Omelet.—Soak a cupful of bread crumbs in hot milk, add two well beaten eggs, season with cayenne; add two tablespoonfuls of grated cheese; season with salt and cook in an omelet pan. When set, place in the oven to bake the top.

HEART and HOME PROBLEMS

BY MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1)—I am a girl with a lot of admirers on account of my looks. I am going with a man who people say has a disreputable character. He is married but his wife goes with other men, so he says he has a right to go with me. Is he right or should I ignore him?

My mother and father are divorced. Mother went back to the stage and I try to be a comfort to father as he is falling fast. Father doesn't like this man and on his account I have kept away from my friend as much as possible, but now he makes threats of forcing me to marry him. What shall I do?

(2)—I am going to Europe with father next month. What kind of wardrobe do I need, as I am going first-class? Do not leave out anything as I can afford anything.

ANXIOUS
(1)—Some day you'll want to marry and be happy, won't you, my dear? At least I hope you do. If so, put this man out of your life. He has no right there. Your father knows best. Please him, even if it hurts you a little now. You will be very thankful if you do, in the years to come. The man can not force you to marry him as he is already married. If he really loved you, he would keep away from you, for your own good. He is merely selfish, trying to please himself.

(2)—You will need two or three one-piece dresses (they are the most convenient), an evening gown or two, a long coat, a two-piece tailored suit, a knickerbock hat, afternoon hat and evening wrap and headgear. Buy all the shoes you need in this country. Get your nice gloves abroad. But so you will find better bargains there in fine lingerie. For the steamer, provide a cap, veil and steamer rug. You will need plenty of warm clothing on shipboard.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1)—Can you tell me some suitable games pertaining to Indians or their life for young boys and girls, also for the large crowd, to play at a church entertainment? (2)—What kind of decorations should be used for the Indian settlement?

VIVIAN.
(1)—The Indian dances are rather familiar and could be used. You might have a simple dramatization of Hiawatha. There might be living pictures of famous Indians and scenes taken from Indian stories. You might have for the first, Columbus' reception by the Indians when he landed in America. That would be very appropriate. (2)—I suppose you will have Indian tepees and an imitation Indian fire. Decorate with Indian blankets, skins, Indian pottery, bead fringes, tomahawks, bows and arrows and feathers looking as much like eagle feathers as possible.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1)—What will keep my hands from perspiring? (2)—What will keep my hair from falling out? (3)—Please tell me how to make egg shampoo. ANXIOUS
(1)—Rub the palms of the hands in pure alcohol two or three times a day. Nervousness often makes the hands perspire. If you are nervous, see if your system doesn't need toning up and take a good tonic; also eat well.
(2)—About the best and simplest remedy I know of is kerosene. Dip your hairbrush in a shallow saucer of kerosene and brush the hair well with it, getting down to the scalp. Be sure to keep your brush and comb absolutely clean, if you have to clean them every day. Warm ammonia water will clean them. (3)—Beat up a couple of eggs and rub into the hair, let dry, then rinse out in several warm (not hot) waters. No soap is needed.

Dried Fruits and Their Uses.

"I have just used my last jar of fruit, and am a unusual thing to hear at this time of year. This need not be so much of a tragedy as it sounds, on first hearing it, as there are fresh fruits in market and more are coming all the time, but it takes money to buy fresh fruits and sometimes much money. The market fluctuates, a holiday, or a cold wave adds a few cents to the cost of even the common fruits, while a day or two later they may be but much lower in price. But the convenience of dried fruits are a regular staple article and they require little, if any sugar which is a saving and very little fuel to bring them back to their highest perfection of fruit. All fruit is mainly water, and that is pure; the solids are very useful in keeping the body in a healthful condition. Dried fruits have parted with all their moisture and natural juices, the drying process and they must have all this replaced before they are cooked. The most effective way to do this is first, pick the fruit over carefully and wash in lukewarm water, to remove any foreign substances. Then let them soak in water to entirely cover over night. The time for soaking depends upon the dryness of the fruit but sufficient water should be absorbed to fill out the fruit to its natural size. Set over a stove fire in a covered sauce pan in the water in which it is cooked and bring to the boiling point. Now put on the back part of the stove, in a fireless cooker or turn the gas burner as low as possible, placing an asbestos mat under and cook very slowly. The usual sized double boiler is too small to allow the fruit to swell to its full size, unless half a pound or less is being cooked. Some fruits such as apricots need little or no cooking, only the soaking and a light syrup made and poured over them. There is scarcely any limit to the good things which can be made from these fruits when properly cooked and may also be eaten of much more freely by children or elderly people or those having rheumatism or other acid diseases than the fresh fruits. I was, however, very much surprised when invited by a small club to dinner recently in New York to have pure ice cream served. My friends said they had ordered it specially for me to try as it was a great favorite with all who dined there. It was delicious.

Prune Ice Cream.
Prepare cream same as for vanilla ice cream. Drain and seed carefully cooked prunes, as directed. Rub through the pure sieve or a colander, so they may be even chopped fine. For every quart of sweet cream use one pint of the prunes unsweetened and one tablespoonful lemon juice. Freeze and pack and let ripen for one hour.

Apricot Short Cake
Materials.—Pastry Flour, 3 c.; butter and fat, 1 1/2 c.; milk, salt, 1 1/2 tsp.; baking powder, 1 tsp.; sugar, 2 tsp.
Directions.—Pastry: Beat, measuring cup, teaspoon, knife, flour sifter, bowl and pie pan.
Set the sifter into the bowl and add the sifted flour, salt sugar and baking powder. Sift, measure and add the fat and cut well into the flour. Now add milk and a little at a time using a knife, cutting it in, rather than stirring. Have the dough just stiff enough to take out on the board and pat to fit over the cream, sprinkle with granulated sugar and bake in a hot oven for twenty-five minutes. Split open while hot, spread with soft butter and layer of apricots cooked as directed. Serve with cream.

With the exception of Oregon prunes they will never need sweetening as they are very rich in their own sugar. But apricots are quite tart and will need sugar; peaches will need very little. Any of these fruits such as berries, prunes, apricots and peaches are very good for shortcakes, pies, tarts, ice creams, souffles.

Stuffed Prunes.
All of the dried fruits are very fine steamed; in fact there is no better way to cook them. Select a choice, large California prune and prepare as directed, or soak and steam but not too soft, remove the stones and stuff with nuts and dates or raisins chopped fine. Roll in granulated sugar. Better by keeping several days and are a dainty after-dinner sweet and harmless.

Simplify Life.
I do believe in simplicity. It is astonishing as well as sad, how many trivial affairs even the wisest man thinks he must attend to in a day; how singular an affair he thinks he must omit. When the mathematician would solve a difficult problem he first finds the equation of all known branches and reduces it to its simplest terms. So simplify the problem of life, distinguish the necessary and the real.—From Thoreau "Letters"

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Possibilities of 25c Soupbone.
For the benefit of young housekeepers I wish to tell of the possibilities of a 25-cent soupbone.

Go to the market and select it yourself. Place it in a large boiler and cover with cold water. When tender, remove from fire. Put meat on a platter and set stock away to cool.

There should be nearly three pounds of meat.
For dinner for two, cut in small pieces one-half pound of meat and put in kettle; add one quart of stock (there should be four quarts), two onions, two potatoes sliced, one-fourth cup rice, and boil one-half hour.

Now take one cup sweet milk, one-half teaspoon salt and one teaspoon baking powder; add flour as long as you can stir with a spoon. Drop this in kettle (first putting in a piece of the bone to keep batter from sticking to the bottom of the kettle. Boil 20 minutes and you will have dumplings to please "him."

If you wish a hot soup for supper—To one quart stock add a little celery, two onions, one-half cup rice and one cup tomatoes; cook slowly one hour.

Now for breakfast: Chop one-half pound of meat, add twice the amount of cold potatoes; put a tablespoonful of the fat in skillet, add the hash, cover closely and simmer 15 minutes.

For dinner: Put in skillet the rest of the fat, add remainder of meat dredged in flour. Brown nicely; then pour over two cups of stock and cook for five minutes; serve with mashed potatoes.

There is still left one quart of stock. Soup can be made of this or it can be used to season vegetables in place of butter.

Shamrock Cookies.
Mix one-half cup butter with one cup brown sugar; add one egg well beaten, a little salt, one-half cup sweet milk, one-half cup grated nutmeg, one teaspoon each of cinnamon and ginger, three cups of sifted flour (more may be needed to make the dough stiff enough) one-half teaspoon baking soda dissolved in one tablespoon boiling water.

Mix in order given.
Roll thin. Cut with "club" cutter from "card party" cutters, press some pieces of nuts into them and bake.

Make a frosting of the juice of one lemon, a little salt and enough powdered sugar to make a thick mixture and rub well with flannel until clean. Do not rinse, but wipe dry with clean cloth. Gloves will be soft and like new.

Things Worth Knowing.
Always stir up baking powder before using, and you will have better results.

To Clean Delicate Colored Kid Gloves.—Wring flannel cloth very dry out of warm water and rub it with good white soap; put gloves on hands and rub well with flannel until clean. Do not rinse, but wipe dry with clean cloth. Gloves will be soft and like new.

Pound Lily Tarts.—The mixture for this lovely in pastry requires one egg thoroughly beaten, a pinch of salt and flour to make a stiff paste—nearly as stiff as for noodles. Roll very thin, cut out with a round biscuit cutter. Then, with sharp knife, cut from the edge nearly to the center, in four places, as in quarters, making four petals. Using two layers for each lily, place one on the other, first moistening the lower layer in the center, then pressing the upper one upon it just enough to fasten slightly, being careful that each petal will lie over the opening between petals in layer below.

Press the head of a clothespin lightly down in center and hold with the pin for a few seconds in pan of hot lard, as for doughnuts. The pieces will turn up around the clothespin like the petals of a pond lily. Serve with lemon butter or yellow jelly in center. Roll just enough for two layers, one tart, at a time, and keep remainder of dough covered, as it dries very quickly.

Painting Window Shades.
Window shades that have become cracked and broken can be renovated by laying them flat on the floor and painting them with ordinary oil paint bought at any hardware store in small cans. Paint one side, let dry thoroughly before touching the other side. This treatment preserves the shades and makes them last years.

The Easter Dawning

HERE is death in every part of me," prayed one of the early Christian fathers, "let there be an Easter dawning."

If we looked at ourselves as searchingly as did this early pietist, perhaps we would echo his prayer.

Without doubt, there is death in many parts of us, even if we will not admit it, in all.

In some of us, is there not death in our affection? Would not life be brighter, fuller, richer and happier for ourselves and for those about us, if with the dawn of Easter, tomorrow, there was a resurrection in us of sympathy, or thoughtfulness, or kindness, or courtesy, or some one of those flowers of action that bloom from regard for others?

In the year that is past, we may have grown hard, or cold, or thoughtless, or ungracious. We may scarcely realize this. These things may have crept in quietly, insidiously, until they have overgrown and buried those finer qualities of our nature.

But this is the season of resurrection. Wake the affections to an Easter dawning, and let them bloom forth again in beauty and life.

Perhaps our conscience is dead. We have seen so much wrong about us, we have noted everywhere, the wicked in high places, that we think, what is the use of our trying to do right, that it doesn't pay. And gradually, the still, small voice within us has grown fainter, and now it is silent altogether.

But in reality, few of us believe in the death of the conscience. We feel that a true and needed friend has gone from us. We miss his companionship. When all other comfort failed, we found comfort in his approval.

But this is the season of resurrection. Let us roll the stone from that sealed chamber of our dead conscience, and bid it walk forth. Let us wake it to life again, and bid it stay close by us through the rest of our earthly pilgrimage. And though the wicked may flourish as the bay tree, we may know a happiness they never reach; no matter how high they may be enthroned upon the pinnacle of worldly success.

Then, our aspirations may have died. Our struggle for bread and butter, our inability to get out of our humdrum environment may have killed all those impulses that once were ours toward fine and noble things. We have lost our ideals. We have come to think a belief in such things is foolishness, and that they are altogether out of place in the hard world in which we live.

But of all the resurrections we may need, the resurrection of our ideals is the one we most need. They are our guiding stars. Without them, we drift, hopeless, on a dark and sullen sea. They are the joy of life. Without them, we walk a barren and cheerless road. They are the life of our life, the very core of our being, the voice of our real self.

If we resurrect tonight else tomorrow, let us resurrect our ideals; if they have been killed in the daily warfare for bread, and burned under the hard, cold materialism of every day life.

But in whatever part of us we feel death, let us remember with joy that tomorrow is an Easter dawning, that now is with us the season of resurrection, and that what seemed dead has the power to arise into newness of life.

OVER HALF MILLION CATHOLICS IN STATE

More Than 15,000,000 Members of Roman Church in United States According to New Directory.

According to advance sheets of the 1913 edition of The Official Catholic Directory, published by P. J. Kennedy & Sons of Barclay street, New York, there are 15,154,158 Catholics in the United States. This figure includes only the Catholics in the United States proper and adding the 7,315,589 Catholics in the Philippines, the million or more in Porto Rico, the 115,520 in Alaska, the 42,108 in the Hawaiian Islands and the 990 in the canal zone, it will be found that there are 23,329,047 Catholics under the United States flag.

According to the 1913 issue a new Catholic church is built every day in the year. There were 373 new churches established during 1912, some of them of great size, being only mission churches. All told there are 14,212 churches in the United States, 9,501 having resident pastors.

There are 17,947 Catholic clergymen in the United States, 13,273 being secular clergy and 4,672 being American clergymen are found in almost every land. Only a few days ago an Illinois priest sailed from New York for the island of Timor, an island away out in the Indian ocean, inhabited by semi-barbarous Malays and Papuans.

Colleges and Academies. There are 230 colleges and academies for boys and 684 academies for girls, where the higher education of Catholic youth is given attention. The number of academies for girls is larger than the number of colleges for men and boys, but the number of men and boy students is much larger than girl students. There are, also, eighty-five ecclesiastical seminaries in which 6,169 men and youths are being trained for the priesthood.

According to the figures supplied by the diocesan chancery officials, there are 3,250 parishes in this country which have parochial schools connected with the churches. In these 3,250 schools 1,360,761 boys and girls are receiving their elementary education. Furthermore in many rural districts Catholic parochial schools cannot be organized, due provision being otherwise made for the religious instruction of youth. There are 47,415 orphan asylums in Catholic parishes, and adding together the number of pupils in parochial schools, the orphan asylums, those in detention schools, institutes, academies, high schools and colleges, it will be found that there are 1,593,316 young people under Catholic care in the United States.

The Church in Wisconsin.

Looking over the Wisconsin section of the official directory reveals the fact that there are 55,476 Roman Catholics in the Badger state. Wisconsin is eighth in the list of states according to the Catholic population figures. The directory further shows that there are 830 Catholic clergymen in the state of Wisconsin, 683 of these being secular priests. There are 851 Catholic churches in Wisconsin, 551 having resident pastors, and 299 being mission churches, that is, churches which are attended from neighboring parishes.

Membership by States. The 25 states having the largest number of Catholics are given below. During the year 1912 Michigan has forged ahead of Wisconsin and Kansas has advanced over New Hampshire, Maine and Nebraska. The table follows:

SIDEWALK SKETCHES

EXERCISE.

(By Howard L. Rann.)

EXERCISE is hard work disguised as recreation. It is used principally by people who have mislaid their appetite and have to go around without one. The world is full of people who are loaded up with brain fat and wouldn't know an appetite from any other household utensil, and the only way they can work up a craving for food is to lapse around the golf links about four days a week.

Exercise can be taken in various ways. When a man is all run down, so that he has to consume with the malted milk tablet once every hour, his physician advises him to get up early and walk four miles before breakfast. The patient may run across his appetite while he is gone, but it won't be of any use to him, for when he returns home he will be too exhausted to raise a spoon soup off the tablecloth. This will disappoint his appetite to such an extent that it will leave him in a half and fail to come back for several days.

A good many men are able to get enough exercise to last them during the day by circling around a pool table from 1 p. m. until half past five, which enables them to approach the evening meal with a gnawing sense of hunger and leave the impression with all present that they are employed in a tobacco factory. Many a man who thinks nothing of covering 22 miles around a pool table loses the use of his legs at once when his wife wants him to walk down town after the laundry.

The most popular form of exercise is buying an automobile with a first mortgage loan and trying to see how fast it will go without blowing up. This usually gives a man a very red and pained expression, but it also gives him a gasoline bill which takes it away as fast as it comes.

If some people would exercise more during working hours and punch the time clock some time before noon, they would not have to frequent the bowling alley and swing Indian clubs in order to enjoy a square meal. There is a whole lot of exercise going to waste on an eight-hour schedule that could be turned into an increase of salary.

Fads and Fashion

New York, March 20.—Contrary to the predictions of some fashion writers the long and narrow silhouette is still in vogue and there is to be found but little of the predicted fullness. On a tour through the fashionable shops and among the resorts where fashionable women gather, one may see skirts that are narrower than most of the skirts six months ago. The slashes are deeper, too, and run higher up. Women have found that this slash is an absolute necessity for convenience in walking. At first the material used to overlap at the cut but now this has been done away with and the cuts are boldly displayed.

Draperies are used in many cases but in such a manner as not to interfere with the slimmness of the silhouette. Some of the best skirts have drapings that appear to have slipped off from the hips and lodged near the hem. The fullness is invariably up and down and the gathers run at right angles to the length. The combination of black and white is used less extensively and preference is given to all black models. Some of the black tailormade dresses of light materials have stitchings of heavy white silk. The object is principally to lengthen the figure, as the lines run up and down. Broche de laine or brocade woolen goods is one of the novelties. Brocade is also found in cotton effects, also crepe de Chine and in silk.

Yellows were such a success during the winter that the color has now been adopted for tailormade and afternoon gowns. The fashionable yellows are decidedly outspoken in color, like khaki, copper, lemon, corn and brass, which is a new shade promising to be very popular in the spring. Some of the yellows, like sulphur are extremely aggressive. For street wear some of the best linings are in tulle, a greenish-yellow color not quite so loud as some of the other yellows.

Skirts have shortened a trifle, and the jacket is decidedly shorter, in some cases by four inches. The square effect in front is not seen unless one wishes to cling to the classic style. The new cut is either cut-away, or it is round. If pockets are put in they are rounded likewise. Some of the jackets show a revers on one side only others no revers at all. The effect of the latter is very good. Braid of a darker color, or even black, borders some of the jackets, and runs about the plaits of skirts, in the latter case helping to produce the long line.

While the skirt is shorter, it is not markedly so. The thing we are taught is that the feet and ankles should show when the wearer steps out. The best of the skirts have the slit in front, running up half a yard or more. When one stands still and erect the opening is hardly noticeable. It is in walking that the slit becomes apparent. Sometimes the slit comes at one side, sometimes at both sides, sometimes at the back, according to the whim of the wearer or of the dressmaker.

Woolen tailored costumes, generally reserved for journeys and other practical purposes are made with skirts short enough to show the pretty shoes, and wide enough to allow an easy stride. The fullness is cunningly hidden under a plait or panel, and thus ample width is gained, while preserving the straight, slender silhouette.

A skirt which easily accomplishes these important points is achieved by the use of two straight breadths, simply lapped about the figure with no seams. The lapping edges are rounded and trimmed with stitching, and a cluster of buttons is set in each corner. The laps, while unbuttoned except at the waist, are wide enough to conceal the leg. Hanging loose and straight from the shoulders the long coat of this costume has rounded corners to match the skirt, and the narrow fronts are secured by one button set at the bust line.

For hot summer days there are one-piece dresses, built from dark plaided taffetas, with a belt or sash of plain silk selected to match one of the colors in the plaid. Invariably these have white collars and cuffs or frills. The blousing corsage closes in front and a cunning little handkerchief pocket is posed on the left side. Many of the skirts have pockets, sometimes hidden in the plaits, sometimes openly displayed as patch pockets.

Short loose separate coats, deepening into a rounded point at the back, of red, bright green, or blue cloth are chosen for seaside or country wear with thin white dresses.

The new waistline, much higher in front than at the back, that has been gradually evolved during the past few seasons, is now strongly emphasized in coats which lengthen narrowly at the back, rounding from a high bust line above a short waistcoat or a high folded girdle. That it is exceedingly ugly and awkward does not seem to matter in the least. One of the French designers of fashion carries this line into skirts as well, cutting them much shorter in front than at the back. In a long skirt this effect is rather good, adding significance to a pretty foot.

EXPERIENCE OF MOTHERHOOD

Advice to Expectant Mothers

The experience of Motherhood is a trying one to most women and marks distinctly an epoch in their lives. Not one woman in a hundred is prepared for herself. Of course nearly every woman nowadays has medical treatment at such times, but many approach the experience with an organism unfitted for the trial of strength, and when it is over her system has received a shock from which it is hard to recover. Following right upon this comes the nervous strain of caring for the child, and a distinct change in the mother results.

There is nothing more charming than a happy and healthy mother of children, and indeed child-birth under the right conditions need be no hazard to health or beauty. The unexplainable thing is that, with all the evidence of shattered nerves and broken health resulting from an unprepared condition, and with ample time in which to prepare, women will persist in going blindly to the trial.

Every woman at this time should rely upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, a most valuable tonic and invigorator of the female organism.

In many homes there are now children because of the fact that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound makes women normal, healthy and strong.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

SHEANDOAH

By HENRY TYRRELL

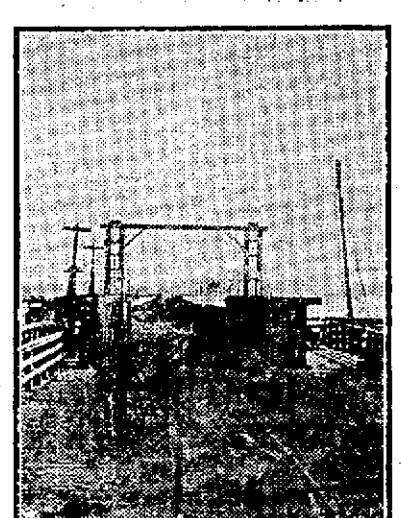

Founded on BRONSON HOWARD'S Great Play

A Stirring Story of Military Adventure and of a Strange Wartime Wooing

Copyright, 1912, by G. P. Putnam's Sons.

Lee was exercising his energy, sagacity, skill and experience in the tour de force of sending an equipped army to Johnston and Beauregard in the field at the threatened points. From one of these points, the great valley of Virginia lying between the Blue Ridge and Shenandoah mountains, he had called Colonel Thomas Jonathan Jackson, an eccentric Presbyterian professor at the Virginia Military Institute in Lexington, and who in the first brief month since the breaking out of the war had developed aggressive qualities calculated to attract the attention of the authorities at Richmond.

Lieutenant Ellingham, promoted to captain, naturally gravitated to the new brigade of Jackson, who was now elevated to the rank of brigadier general of volunteers. The regiments of his brigade were composed of the very flower and pride not only of the valley but of the whole commonwealth of Virginia.

Long Bridge Over the Potomac.

ginia, and even before Jackson's troops took the field they had already begun to receive the impress of the iron hand of their leader.

Their first destination was Manassas Junction, the point of union of the railroad coming into Virginia from Washington with a branch road leading into the Shenandoah valley. General Lee had pointed out that this strategic point would in all probability be the first battlefield in the move to check the Federal advance toward Richmond, and he now concentrated all available forces there.

On a small stream called Bull Run, some thirty miles southwest of Washington, Beauregard awaited the arrival of McDowell. The banks of this stream are abrupt and densely wooded, but it is fordable in numerous places, and at that time was crossed on the Centerville and Warrenton turnpike road, below Sudley church, by a stone bridge.

It was on a bright, sunny Sunday morning of mid-July that the two armies of brothers—disrupted members of a family republic that had held together for three generations—first emerged in serried battle lines six miles long from the mysterious Virginia forests on either side of Bull Run and rushed forward to fight breast to breast for victory.

The Federal plan of operations, credited to the still masterful Lieutenant General Winfield Scott, started with the planting of an entire division of fully 15,000 men in the rear at Centerville, to protect the communications. Colonel Haverill's regiment, to his intense chagrin, was here helplessly detained. Another division, in which General Beauregard's brigade was included, marched ahead to make the opening demonstration at the stone bridge, while two others crossed at the Sudley and other fords, to concentrate on the southern bank of the stream and guard Beauregard's left.

This seemed an admirably clear and simple plan at 8 o'clock in the morning. Before noon it was an obfuscated muddle, and the wide and plateau over which the battle spread like a fire in the brushwood swarmed with confused masses of northern and southern troops needing to and for, alternately taking and losing and retaking the same positions half a dozen times over, all lines indistinguishable in dense and lurid clouds of smoke, through which artillery guns and caissons dashed madly, while the thunder of cannon and the sustained crash of musketry reverberated in diabolical concert from the low lying hills around, and near and far arose, mingled with the human-like neighing of horses and the hoarse shouts, yells, cheers and commands, the horrible shrieks and groans of wounded and dying.

Before his horse was killed and himself knocked senseless by the explosion of a shell Heartsease saw General Beauregard fall in the grand charge that drove back the South Carolina legions of Hampton and Bee. He also became aware of another brigade near the enemy's center that did not give way, but stood its ground stubbornly and then turned aggressor. It flashed over Heartsease's mind at the time that one or two main commands like this one would make Beauregard hard to whip, not knowing that this was the unique First brigade of the Army of the Shenandoah, under Jackson.

Bob Ellingham, galloping along the little wooded crest on the other side of the stone bridge, knew all about this brigade. He saw General Bee check and rally his scattered forces by pointing with his sword and shouting:

"Look at Jackson there standing like a stone wall!"

Jackson's brigade on the artillery swept plateau of Manassas was playing the part of the Imperial guard of Napoleon at Austerlitz, but without the prestige or the inspiration of apparent success. At a late hour of the afternoon neither side knew whether it had lost or won. In point of fact, one had about the same right to be routed as the other. Beauregard was tearing about the field, at every portion of the lines, his dark creole face burning with animation as he shouted encouragement to his grimy, savage looking troops, who responded with the blood-curdling "rebel yell" of the southern swamp rangers.

CHAPTER IV. The Virginians.

GENERAL JOE JOHNSTON—the ranking Confederate officer, but who had entrusted the immediate command to Beauregard on account of the latter's familiarity with the country—was able to keep from his headquarters something like a general outlook over the field and received intelligence just as a final attack was preparing that "a Federal army" had come up and was advancing upon his rear. This should have been the Union reserves from Centerville, but it was not. It was General Kirby Smith of the Army of the Shenandoah arriving with 1,700 fresh infantry. The whole southern line now advanced to the charge, and the combined attack upon the Federal flank and front was decisive enough to turn the tide of battle from uncertainty to sudden panic. The lines of blue wavered and broke, fell back from the plateau, across the Warrenton pike and on toward the Bull Run fords. The repulse became a rout, the rout grew into an appalling avalanche of defeat. The Federal advance on the southern side of Bull Run had seen a regiment moving toward them, but were told it was a New York regiment which had been expected for support, and the artillerymen withheld their fire. Suddenly there came a fearful explosion of musketry, which in an instant changed the scene into one of hideous carnage. Death-stricken men with dripping wounds were clinging to caissons, which frantic horses dragged pell-mell through the infantry ranks and over the prostrate bodies of the fallen. A caisson blew up and three horses galloped off with the burning wreck, dragging a fourth horse, which was dead.

The Repulse Became a Rout, an Avalanche of Defeat.

Cannoners lay limp across their guns, with rammers and sponges and lanyards still in their hands. Whole batteries were annihilated in a moment, and organization command was wiped out. Those who could run, walk, limp, or even crawl, waited no longer, but dropped everything and got away from there.

On his bill at Manassas, after the final victorious charge, General Jackson had come nearer to the actual truth of possibility than he or any other Confederate then knew when he cried out exultantly:

"Give me 10,000 men and I will be in Washington tonight!"

The dawn of Monday came, but the sun did not shine. In the hot, sultry, drizzling morning the defeated troops poured into Washington over the Long bridge.

Some good citizens—but they were not in the majority—put out steaming wash kettles filled with coffee or soup for the forlorn boys. Among these good Samaritans was Jenny Buckthorn, surrounded by a staff of colored servants. Her father, severely wounded and captured by the enemy, had been recognized by his former comrade, General Beauregard, and as a personal courtesy had been exchanged for a wounded Confederate officer and al-

WHY MARCH IS THE MOST DANGEROUS MONTH

March is the most dangerous month of the year because the change of season is more than a good many system can stand. To often it is true that the sick "last only till spring." But, if the system is fortified, if the impurities are driven from the blood, and the nerve tissues fed with wholesome and strength-giving food medicine, there is no danger in the change of seasons. Father John's Medicine is invaluable as a tonic in the spring. It strengthens the system and drives out the poisonous waste matter—builds up the body. It is this power that has made it so successful in curing colds and all throat and lung troubles. No weakening stimulants, morphine or other dangerous drugs.

If you have any difficulty in securing Father John's Medicine from your druggist write to Father John's Medicine, Lowell, Mass., enclosing $1.00 for a large bottle by express prepaid.

"Where is Heartsease?" was the first question Jenny asked her father after having ascertained that that stern parent was not dead.

"Don't ask me," muttered the old warrior. "This is no time for pines and dancing parties."

One especially miserable looking object drifted along about noon and stood as if dazed at the sight of food and drink and commiseration. His uniform might have been blue or it might have been gray—mind and soul were the prevailing hues. His shoes were heavy brogans tied with twine, and his naked and sore ankles showed that he was without socks. An old slouch hat was pulled over his face, and a tobacco bag hung from a button of his jacket, the collar of which was turned up to the chin, evidently to conceal the condition of the shirt—or the lack of one.

"You poor fellow," said Jenny. "Tell me, were you in the cavalry?"

"Yes, Miss Buckthorn. Is it possible you do not recognize me? I must apologize for my appearance, but—"

"Great heavens! Is it yourself, Heartsease?" exclaimed the girl, with a little shriek. "Why, you look like a bum!"

"Possibly this may serve to identify me," and he drew from the mysterious inner recesses a stained packet, which proved to be a large silk handkerchief enveloping a dainty lace one.

It was raining. Mr. Spinkins-Jones was hurrying along to beat the cars, all of which had refused to stop for him. There was a voice.

"Just a moment, please," it said. "Would you mind allowing me to examine that umbrella? And would you mind telling me—"

"Oh! I—I hope you'll let me explain!" stammered Mr. Spinkins-Jones. "You see, the umbrella looked so much like mine that in the hurry of the moment I inadvertently picked it up. Take it, do. I am—er—exceedingly glad of this chance to rectify the mistake!"

Mr. Larkins-Schuyler took the umbrella and proceeded rapidly down the street. It was still raining. There was another voice.

"Pardon me," it said. "But may I have a look at that umbrella? And would you mind—"

"Oh—er—let me explain," stammered Mr. Larkins-Schuyler. "In the hurry of the moment, and all that, y'know, here, take it, do!"

And Mr. Slag-Farson strode away with it, though it wasn't his. It was still raining.

IF THIS IS YOUR BIRTHDAY. Danger to your possessions threatened. Look carefully after those you value most, remembering that health is one of the most important. If widowed you will receive an offer of marriage. Those born today will be too visionary to succeed in ordinary business, but if their special talents are trained and guided wisely they will be capable of success with high honors.

Fair Comparison. "Do you mean to say that you compare yourself to Shakespeare?" "Why not?" inquired the manager of the Clothesline Burlesque company. "Shakespeare had pretty much my experience. The critics roasted him and the authorities were always threatening to close his show."—Washington Star.

Points About the Banjo. A banjo is a difficult instrument to do anything with. After you learn to play it, you have to spend a lot more time hunting up people who are willing to listen to it.
